

Leona Davis-Brown

Leona Davis-Brown is the Digital Marketing Specialist for United Way of Central New Mexico. She moved to Albuquerque from Washington DC at the start of her freshman year attending West Mesa High School. After graduating, she attended Huston-Tillotson University in Austin, TX where she earned a BA in Mass Communications.

With a heart to serve in the community, Leona has worked with several non-profits over the years. She has served as a communications specialist for the Austin Area Urban League, New Mexico Black History Organizing Committee (known now as the NM Black Leadership Council), Impact Nations, and the Anderson Abruzzo International Balloon Museum Foundation. Her current passion through United Way is to provide residents of central New Mexico with resourceful information that will increase their upward mobility and economic situations. Her long-term interest is to join an organization of advocates who are willing to learn equitable structures and apply new systems within corporate and government agencies.

In 2015, she obtained a MA in Communication with an emphasis in Marketing and New Media from Southern New Hampshire University. She is also a proud member of the Albuquerque Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Incorporated.
